Camp Cope-A-Lot Map

Welcome to Camp Cope-A-Lot!

We're so glad you're here. Join us as we go through the weeks at camp and learn a lot about how to try new things and how to feel better when you're worried or scared.

Keep this Go-to-Gadget safe and bring it with you each time you start a new Level. You can complete the Go-To-Gadget activities each week after finishing a Level. This will help you prepare for the next Level and will help you remember what you learned.

We hope you think Camp Cope-A-Lot is fun and helpful. We can't wait to see you at camp!

Level 1: TO CAMP COPE-A-LOT

Sometime before the next Cope-A-Lot contest, take a moment to insert your response here.

When it's time for the contest, you can use your Go-To-Gadget to help you remember. That way you'll be sure to win GameTime!

Prep for Level 2 at Camp Cope-A-Lot

Level 2 at Camp will be about thoughts and feelings. For this GTG activity, tell us about a time when you really enjoyed yourself. Tell us about the situation, what you were thinking at that time, and how you felt.

Example: Here's Mike's example of when he felt good:

"If it were me, I'd talk about when I visited my friend's house and we went to the movies. I felt really happy and remember thinking 'I'm lucky to have such a good friend.'"

Situation	Thought	Feeling
When I visited my friend's house and we went to the movies.	I'm lucky to have such a good friend.	I felt really happy.

Below, write about the time you felt good.

Now put the situation, what you were thinking, and how you were feeling in the boxes below.

Situation	Thought	Feeling

Level 2: AT THE CARNIVAL

Ask yourself, "Am I Feeling Frightened?" When you figure out what your body is telling you, you can decide what to do next.

Practice for Level 2 at Camp Cope-A-Lot

This week at Camp Cope-A-Lot, we talked a lot about different types of feelings. In the spaces provided here, write ways you can tell by looking at someone if they are Excited, Disappointed, Anxious, or Relaxed.

F = Feeling frightened?

Example:
They're smiling
Excited	Disappointed	Anxious	Relaxed

Level 3: BY THE WATERFALL

Sandy says relaxation is a great thing to do any time you're feeling tense or really stressed out, or when your body is telling you that you're feeling anxious.

If you ask yourself "Am I Feeling Frightened?" and the answer is "Yes!" Then it may be time to do some relaxation. Follow these steps any time you want to relax.

Practice for Level 3 at Camp Cope-A-Lot

This week at Camp Cope-A-Lot we're asking you to practice relaxation. Practice on your own at least once this week on your own so you'll know what to do!

Relaxation

1. Sit or lie in a comfortable position.
2. Breathe. Take a slow and deep breath to the count of 5. Breathe in through your nose, and let it out through your mouth—like you're blowing up a balloon in your tummy. Do this twice.
3. Relax your hands. Next, take your right hand and pretend you're holding a lemon and trying to squeeze out all the juice for 5 seconds. Now let the lemon drop to the floor. Relax your hand. Now do the same thing with your left hand.
4. Relax your shoulders. Try to make your shoulders touch your ears. Squeeze your head into your shoulders, like a turtle going into its shell. Now let your shoulders drop -- relax your shoulders. Do this twice.
5. Relax your neck. Turn your head to the left. Now slowly turn your head to the right. Now put your head down so that your chin is touching your chest, and now put your head all the way back.

There's more... turn to the next page!

Next time you're at Camp Cope-A-Lot, visit the Waterfall. Sandy will take you through relaxation any time you need a review.

Relaxation, continued.

6. Relax your arms. Take your arms and reach for the ceiling, try to touch the ceiling. Hold your hands up as high as you can. Now let your arms drop to your sides. Give 'em a little shake.
7. Relax your stomach. Squeeze in your stomach, like you're doing a sit-up or trying to fit through a narrow fence, make your stomach really tight. Now relax your stomach. Do this twice.
8. Relax your thighs (upper parts of your legs). Focus on your right thigh and tighten it for 5 seconds. Then relax your thigh. Do the same thing with your left thigh.
9. Relax your feet and toes. Try to curl your toes down as far as you can, like you're digging them into squishy mud. Hold them there for 5 seconds. Then relax your toes. Do this twice. If you're having trouble curling your toes, you can put your feet on the floor and push your feet and toes into the floor as hard as you can.

Level 4: IN THE TALENT SHOW

See if you can challenge anxious thoughts and use coping thoughts in different situations when you might be “feeling frightened” or “expecting bad things to happen.”

Use this page of your Go-To-Gadget to remind you about coping thoughts (☆).

Practice for Level at Camp Cope-A-Lot

In Level 4 at Camp Cope-A-Lot we talked about using coping thoughts to help others feel less anxious in different situations.

This week, try to use coping thoughts in different situations when you might be “expecting bad things to happen”.

Feeling frightened?

☆ Try Relaxation.

Expecting bad things to happen?

☆ Don't fall into a thinking trap! Use coping thoughts.

How you think about the situation influences how you feel in the situation.

	THINKING TRAPS	COPING THOUGHTS
	Thinking you have to be perfect.	We're human. Nobody's perfect!
	Expecting the worst will happen.	It's almost never as bad as "the worst".
	Thinking it's better not to try.	If I don't try, I'll never know.

Write about a time when you used a coping thought this week to help you when you were feeling anxious.

FOR EXAMPLE:

I got nervous at school before taking a test. I was feeling frightened because I was thinking I wouldn't get the grade I wanted. So, I thought to myself, "Nobody's perfect!" and I tried my best.

Level 5: THROUGH THE OBSTACLE COURSE

If you're feeling frightened or expecting something bad to happen, find attitudes and actions that can help.

A good start is to challenge your anxious thoughts by asking yourself these questions.

Feeling frightened?

- ☆ It's time to do some deep breathing or relaxation.

Expecting bad things to happen?

- ☆ It's time to think of coping thoughts

Attitudes and Actions that can help

- ☆ Challenge the anxious thoughts by asking:

- How accurate is this thought?
- How useful is the thought?
- What else could happen?

- ☆ Time to problem-solve!

Problem-solving steps:

1. What's the problem?
2. Brainstorm ideas.
3. Rank the ideas in order.
4. Try out the highest ranked one!

Keep trying ideas until the problem is solved!

PrUWJW for Level) 'UICamp Cope-A-Lot

In Level 5 at Camp Cope-A-Lot we learned how we can problem-solve. Try practicing using the problem-solving steps on your own in situations where you feel nervous or anxious.

Write about a time when you used problem-solving this week to help you when you were feeling anxious.

FOR EXAMPLE:

I couldn't find my sneakers and was running late for practice. I was feeling frightened because I was thinking I would get in trouble for being late. I problem-solved to find my sneakers. I thought: I could look in my room, wear my regular sneakers, ask my mom to help me look, or call a friend to ask if they can bring an extra pair. I wore my regular sneakers and went to practice. I was only a few minutes late so no one got mad.

Level 6: ON VISITING DAY

Right, “results and rewards.”
Hey check this out, it spells FEAR.
I think I know what this Go-To-
Gadget is for.

It kept track of all the steps of how
I faced my fears – and now I can “go to” the “gadget” if I ever need
a reminder!

Feeling frightened?

- ☆ It’s time to do some deep breathing or relaxation.

Expecting bad things to happen?

- ☆ It’s time to think of coping thoughts.

Attitudes and Actions that can help

- ☆ Challenge anxious thoughts.
- ☆ Time to problem-solve!

Results and Rewards

It’s the FEAR plan—you use it to help you feel better when you’re worried or anxious.

Prep for Level 7's Totem Pole Challenge

So you and Charlie decided to test out your coping skills by doing some Totem Pole Challenges. I think that's a great idea. With the help of your coach, plan your Totem Pole Challenge for Level 7.

Start at the bottom of your totem pole – the one that you think is the least difficult for you. I'll give you time to use in GameTime for every Totem Pole Challenge you finish.

Good luck!

Get your coach to help you complete this section

Use the FEAR Totem Pole at the end of this Go-to-Gadget to start making your list. Ideas and instructions are at the Totem Pole Forest.

Totem Pole Challenge for Level 7:

My first challenge will be _____

FEAR Hierarchy

Name _____

VERY DIFFICULT

SORT OF

A LITTLE

Making A FEAR Totem Pole

<https://campopealot.com/totem-pole>

Prompts to Help Design a FEAR Totem Pole:

This list can help you support your child/student/client in thinking of areas where they run into anxiety or stress more often than they would like. Kids may not be aware of their own worries or patterns of avoidance or difficulty so providing some prompts can help them generate some ideas about what to work on for their Totem Pole Challenges. It's okay if they only choose one or two areas – you can create multiple practices within one area of worry.

It may be helpful to prompt by saying "Here's a list of things many kids worry or get nervous about." Let's go through the list, and we'll see which ones we may want to keep in our FEAR Totem Pole.

Instructions:

"Here's a list of things many kids worry or get nervous about. Let's go through the list, and we'll see which ones we may want to keep in our FEAR Totem Pole."

Choose four items that you think are the most difficult, or, the four that you feel the most anxious about. Write those four in the top four spots on your totem pole, with the most difficult one being all the way at the top.

Next, choose three items that you think are sort of in the middle. Three that you feel anxious about, but less anxious than for the top four. Write those three to the middle three spots on your totem pole.

We're almost done. Choose three items that you think are not as difficult as the others. Those that you feel a little anxious about. Write those three to the bottom three spots on your totem pole.

Great. So, this is your totem pole. You'll have chances to change these around later, in case you change your mind. Each time we start we can write in any changes we want. But for now, these will be the Totem Pole Challenges that you'll do to practice using your FEAR plan."

Note to coaches: it's OK if your child/student/client chooses only one or two areas of worry. You can create multiple types of practices for single areas of worry. See the "Ideas for Totem Pole Challenges" page in the Go-To-Gadget or in the FEAR Totem Pole Forest from the Main Menu for ideas on different types of practices.

Prompts To Help Design a FEAR Totem Pole

Stuff About School:

1. Going to a school event (game day, or dance).

3. Writing on the chalk/dry-erase board in front of the class.
4. Participating in gym class.
5. Taking a test at school.
6. Choosing where to sit in the cafeteria.

Worry about safety or health:

1. Worry about getting germs/getting sick.
2. Worry if it is safe to use public transportation (buses, trains)
3. Worry about dying
4. Worry if you are safe or if a burglar might break-in or you might get kidnapped
5. Worry if you might get stung/hurt/bit or infected by a dog/cat bug or other animal
6. Get scared to go up a tall building or high ladder because you might fall.
7. Worry if something bad will happen if there is a thunderstorm or lightning, tornado, or other storm

Worry about the future:

1. Worry about your grades
2. Worry about things happening in the world based on what you hear on the news
3. Worry about the future
4. Get nervous if you're not sure about what will happen next.

Performing in front of others:

1. Answering questions in class
2. Giving a speech or reading out loud in class
3. Eating in front of others (at home, school, or at restaurants).
4. Answering the phone.
5. Performing in front of an audience (like performing music, or being in a play, or playing in a sporting event).
6. Having your picture taken.

Being away from Mom, Dad, or a loved one:

1. Your parents being late to pick you up
2. Staying somewhere away from your mom, dad or loved one, or away from home
3. Not being able to call or reach your mom, dad, or loved one when they are away.
4. Leaving home in the morning to go to school.
5. If your mom, dad, or loved one is planning to go somewhere without you.
6. Having to stay with a babysitter (or relative) while your mom, dad, or loved one is out.
7. Going to a sleepover.

Talking with other kids:

1. Talking to a new kid
2. Starting or joining in a conversation with other kids.
3. Calling a classmate (to invite them over or ask for homework).
4. Going to a birthday party, a school function, or a dance.
5. Having to tell someone to stop teasing you.
6. Having to say no to someone if you don't want to do what they're asking (like if they ask to borrow your homework but you don't want to give it to them.)

Talking with adults:

1. Buying something in a store by yourself.
2. Asking an adult for help (like a teacher or police officer).
3. Talking to an adult (like a store clerk, waiter, or principal).
4. Ordering for yourself in a restaurant.

Worry about being good at things:

1. Worry about making a mistake on homework or classwork.
2. Worry about someone being upset or disappointed with you.
3. Worry about getting into trouble in school.
4. Worry about being good at sports, dance, art, or other activities.
5. Worry if you have enough friends, or whether people like you.
6. Worry about being on time.
7. Worry whether you'll be good enough when you have to perform in front of others (like music, sports, or a play).

Worry about other people:

1. Worry that your parents will argue
2. Worry whether your mom, dad or family members are healthy
3. Worry whether your mom, dad, or family have enough money.
4. Worry about hurting someone's feelings
5. Worry about what will happen if a loved one or relative dies.

Worry about being alone:

1. Sleeping alone.

CONGRATULATIONS!

You've reached the top of your Totem Pole and you've made it successfully through Camp Cope-A-Lot! You can remember us and everything you did here by just looking through your Go-To-Gadget, so keep it in a safe place.

And here is a ribbon that you can cut out, like a decal, and post anywhere you like!

Hope you have a great year!
